BLOG Entry: All the details you wish to share

The screenshot shows a web interface for creating a blog entry. At the top, there's a green header with the word "Blog". Below it, there are two main sections: "Blog Entry Title:" and "Blog Summary:". Each section has a text input field. Below the "Blog Summary:" field, there are two radio buttons: "Basic Text Box" and "Rich Text Editor", with "Rich Text Editor" selected. The "Rich Text Editor" is a complex toolbar with various icons for text formatting (bold, italic, underline, strikethrough, text color, background color), alignment (left, center, right, justified), list creation (bulleted, numbered), indentation, and other text manipulation tools. Below the toolbar is a large, empty text area for the blog entry content. At the bottom of the form, there are two checkboxes: "Display Entry:" and "Allow Comments:", both of which are currently unchecked. Below these checkboxes are two buttons: "Save" and "Cancel".

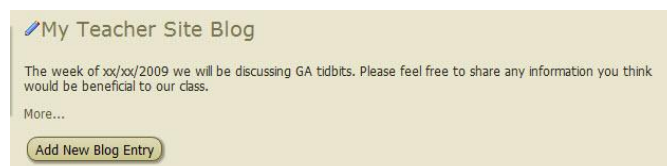

Display Entry: If checked will allow visitors to view

Allow Comments: If Checked will allow visitors to add there own comments on your BLOG
